A Coat of Arms

What is a Coat of Arms?

A Coat of Arms is a unique design painted on a shield. In the Twelfth Century (Over 900 years ago!) helmets and other armour were making it hard to tell friends from enemies. To help stop this each knight and soldier would paint something personal on their shield. These designs were very important in battle, but they also acted like team uniforms when knights met in tournaments.

Can you think of any teams that wear uniforms with a unique design?

Soon, coats of arms weren't just for soldiers! This was a time when not many people could read or write, so having a coat of arms made it easier to recognise others. Towns and cities began to have their own coat of arms and individuals began to have their own designed too.

Do you have a coat of arms on your school uniform?

It became fashionable to have a Coat of Arms. People hired artists to design them and the designs were put on a lot of items. William Beckford was obsessed with coats of arms and put elements of his arms everywhere! Here are some examples below...

Draw it!

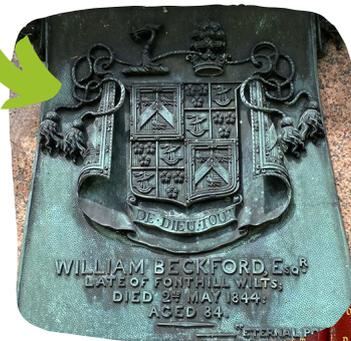

Write it!

A Coat of Arms

You will need:

- Modelling clay in different colours
- Clay tools and pastry cutters if you have them (or you could use pen lids, cocktail sticks, bottle tops etc - whatever you can find!)

Instructions:

1. First, decide which shape you would like to use and design your own Coat of Arms using the templates on the following pages.
2. This is meant to represent you or your family so think about your favourite hobbies or interests.
3. You could also use the traditional meaning table below to decide what colour to use depending on your personality.
4. Now make your design out of modelling clay.
5. First make the base shape, moulding the clay with your hands and any tools that you can find.
6. Then, roll a thin sausage of clay to line each section.
7. Now make the objects to fill each section.
8. Finally make a rectangle of clay and carve your family name into it using a cocktail stick or a pen lid.

Top tip!

If you haven't got many colours, try mixing two different colours together to create a new one!
