

Bath Preservation Trust Archives

We want to provide as much access to Bath Preservation Trust's archives to researchers as we can. The catalogue for the archive is published online and can be searched here: <http://bptrust-archives.org.uk/bpSearch.php>. If you are unable to visit the Archives in person, we can assist with making copies of requested records remotely (we are unable to carry out research on your behalf).

If you are searching for a specific piece of information and have identified a record in the catalogue that you believe contains it, you can request a copy of the record to be sent as a pdf via email. Please see below for pricing.

Copying is charged by page. All copying requests will incur a research fee which includes one digital copy. This fee covers the cost of a member of staff locating files, and checking the records requested contain the appropriate information. The staff member will report back to the researcher to relay the information contained in the requested file(s), and confirm that the researcher still wishes for the copy to be made (a full quote will be provided at this point). The fee will only be charged if records are subsequently copied.

All copies of records from the Bath Preservation Trust archive are supplied for the purposes of private study only.
